From The East

Masons elect a Master of their lodge every year, thereby demonstrating a peaceful succession of power.

Masons are good men from very diverse backgrounds who share common goals, thereby demonstrating a respect for others' beliefs and allowing for compromise and resolution, essential for good legislation.

Masons are required to believe in a Supreme Being, but the definition of God can vary from Mason to Mason, depending on individual faith. While Masonry is not a religion, it demonstrates the essential freedom of religion.

Finally, every Mason, regardless of position in the lodge, profession or personal wealth is equal, demonstrating the idea of equality for all.

These Masonic principles are firmly embedded in our national Constitution and are evidence of the fraternity's influence in the formation of our republic and the idea of individual liberty. When people want freedom, they come to America.

These are but a few illustrations of the very significant importance of our past, our present and our future as a viable organization. When we proceed in our doings as Masons, let us continue to keep the importance of what we are doing in mind. You guys are awesome.
